On July 10, 2006, at approximately 12:30 a.m., a Columbia University Dental student reported that after exiting a cab, he was robbed at gunpoint in the vestibule of his building on 163rd Street between Broadway and Fort Washington Avenue. Two males entered the building behind him, displayed a black handgun, and demanded his property. The suspects made the victim strip prior to fleeing, threatening to shoot him if he stepped outside. The victim provided the following description:

Suspect 1 - Male black, medium to dark complexion, 5’9” to 5’10” tall, in his mid 20’s, thin to medium build, wearing a red baseball cap, zip up black hooded sweatshirt, jeans and was in possession of a black pistol.

Suspect 2 – Male black, medium to dark complexion, 6’1” to 6’2” tall, thin to medium build, wearing a gray hooded sweatshirt with a white T-Shirt underneath.

Please remember when traveling on foot, be cognizant of your surroundings, try to walk in pairs and use the Columbia Escort Service.
