Elisabeth Plum will present the CI approach based on her experiences as a management and culture consultant working internationally with clients from the public and private sector, and she hopes to get a chance to discuss experiences and findings regarding how to bridge and benefit from differences in culturally complex encounters.

Cultural Intelligence is the ability to create fruitful working relationships among diverse groups of people across all kinds of boundaries, nationalities, disciplines, organizations and personalities. CI consists of three interdependent and equally important dimensions of cross cultural encounters:
- Emotional
- Cognitive
- Practical

In the CI approach culture is seen as a dynamic and socially constructed phenomenon rather than a fixed set of rules.
