The Center for International Foreign Language Teacher Education (CIFLTE)
cordially invites you to attend

Six Decades of Research on Language Aptitude: A Systematic Review and Critique

The Talk

The talk will introduce the latest advances in language aptitude research, particularly the conceptualization and measurement of implicit language aptitude and evidence on the validity of the construct.

The Speaker

Shaofeng Li is an Associate Professor in Foreign and Second Language Education at Florida State University.

His main research interests include language aptitude, working memory, task-based learning and teaching, form-focused instruction, and research methods.
