

this has lots of details!

Dali

You need to work on

10/6/06

eliminating run-on sentences

Writer's Entry #1: Ouran High School Host Club, the Characters- Haruhi

Ouran Host Club is my one of my favorite animes. It is very unique and holds a special place in my heart because of the lessons it teaches and the relationships of each character. It's entertaining and I enjoy it a lot especially when I share it with my friends.

Each of the characters has their own personalities and feelings like us, sometimes feeling happy or weird or normal, other times feeling sad or jealous or scared. It is all the different characters that make this anime like it is. They're in a corny way like the colors of the rainbow, one color being pretty but with all of them combined, stunning.

Haruhi is ~~she's~~ a bookworm and studies a lot. She is also in ~~800,000~~ debt to the Host Club since she broke a vase (accidentally) that was going to be auctioned off for that price. Since then she has been working as a host so she has to dress like a boy because the Host Club are all boys. It would have taken longer if she had to work as a pack slave and do meaningless chores. As a host all she has to do is talk to girls over tea and cakes. If enough designates her she is free of her debt. (Yes it sounds like a strange club doesn't it.)

My favorite character is Haruhi. I like her because she is independent and says what is on her mind but also mindful of others. But since she is so independent she always tries to do things by herself, however it worries her friends because she never thinks to turn to them for help, as a reflex she faces a problem alone like when those bullies were hitting on two girls that were costumers to their club and she went by herself to tell them off and they pushed her off a cliff. (OMG!) She almost drowned but Tamaki saved her, everyone was worried about her and Tamaki was angry.

But I think that was how she was raised as a little girl. Her father worked late so when ever she was scared of something she had to deal with it herself and her nature was already independent then. Her greatest fear is thunderstorms. Whenever a storm came up and her father wasn't home she would hide under a table or a closet because she didn't know what else to do, that's why she doesn't turn to others for help, and it's how she dealt with problems.

Each of the characters has their own personalities and feelings like us, sometimes feeling happy or wotul or normal, other times feeling sad or jealous or scared. It is all the different characters that make this anime like it is. They're in a corny way like the colors of the rainbow, one color being pretty but with all of them combined, stunning.

Haruhi is she's a bookworm and studies a lot. She is also in 200,000 debt to the Host Club since she broke a vase (accidentally) that was going to be auctioned off for that price. Since then she has been working as a host so she has to dress like a boy because the Host Club are all boys. It would have taken longer if she had to work as a pack slave and do meaningless chores. As a host all she has to do is talk to girls over tea and cakes. If enough disgruntled her she is free of her debt. (Yes it sounds like a strange club doesn't it.)

My favorite character is Haruhi. I like her because she is independent and says what is on her mind but also mindful of others. But since she is so independent she always tries to do things by herself, however it worries her friends because she never thinks to turn to them for help, as a reflex she faces a problem alone like when those bullies were hitting on two girls that were costumers to their club and she went by herself to tell them off and they pushed her off a