

REFLECTION

- The book is okay so far. Its interesting how the father wants the children to experience what he did Jerusalem.
  - What difficult is filling out the homework sheet at times because I dont know what to say.
  - The discussion was pretty good we were able to get a lot done and so ever many things.
- Good Skill: Facilitating work on: note taking

1. We really started to understand each other more deeply.

2. yes because we were on task and we got a lot of evidence.

3. It led us to talk about differences between Jewish and Arab people.

4. yes it led to the idea that Jews and Arabs don't get along.

5. It affected it positively.

When my group and I applied the "prove it" rule most people agreed with it and just really followed procedure. The nature of the conversation just stayed the same. It also lead to conversation we might have missed about Arabs and Jews. This made a good debate on the conversation.
